

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE.

A selection, without translations, from the charters of the burgh of Aberdeen, was printed by the Spalding Club in 1842 ; but this contribution to Scottish municipal history remained without a companion for twenty-nine years. In 1871 the Burgh Records Society issued a volume of charters and other documents relating to the city of Edinburgh, and in 1872 a similar volume dealing with the burgh of Peebles. In 1880 and in 1884, the charters of Dundee and of Stirling were printed for the corporations of these burghs ; and in 1883 the Ayr charters were edited for the Ayrshire and Galloway Archæological Association. Apart from a privately printed pamphlet containing translations of the Cupar charters, no other volumes of like character have hitherto appeared in Scotland ; but the charters of Glasgow and of Irvine are understood to be in the press.

The volume now issued is the outcome of a report prepared by the editor at the request of the Law Committee of the Town Council of Aberdeen, and embodying four recommendations :—

1st. That the manuscript Chartulary of the Church of St. Nicholas, in the possession of the Council, should be printed. This has been done at the expense of the New Spalding Club.

2nd. That the volumes of letters in the town's archives should be calendared. This undertaking has been approved by the same Club, and its execution entrusted to Mr. A. M. Munro.

3rd. That the town's charters should be printed with translations.

4th. That the Town Council Register, 1398—1884, should be fully indexed.*

The documents that it has been thought desirable to print have been arranged in three groups.

Part I. Fifty-four crown charters and letters patent—from William the Lion's recognition of the burghal status of Aberdeen, down to George III.'s concession of the fishings adjacent to the burgh lands in Kincardineshire. This series of writs is unusually complete and historically interesting, including, as it does, two grants by William, one by Alexander II., two by Alexander III., six by Robert I., two by David II., one by Robert II., one by Robert III., one by James I., four by James II., two by James III., four by James IV., two by James V., three by Mary, thirteen by James VI., four by Charles I., three by Charles II., and one each by Anne, George II., and George III.

Part II. Forty-four Acts of the Scottish Parliament and Privy Council, from the appointment of a circuit court to sit at Aberdeen on the 15th June, 1458, down to the renewal of certain excise dues on the 25th March, 1707. Appended to this is a list of the titles of the principal Acts affecting the burgh, of date subsequent to the Union.

* v. infra. p. 407, footnote.

Part III. Twenty-five miscellaneous writs, 1287—1696. The more important of these are the deed of homage by the community to Edward I. (1296); the obligations entered into by the burgh for the ransom of David II. (1357), and of James I. (1424); the earliest extant accounts of the burgh fermes and customs (1328), and the first tax roll of the citizens (1408); the resignations to the burgh of their properties by the Gray Friars (1559) and by the chaplains of St. Nicholas (1575); the earliest narratives of perambulations of the outer marches (1578) and of the inner marches (1696); the deeds constituting the provost and baillies, admirals depute between Dee and Don (1617), and keepers of the Tron (1617) and of the Cran (1629); the endowment of the Grammar School by Dr. Patrick Dun (1631); and the charters erecting Old Aberdeen (1489) and Torry (1495) into burghs of barony.

A fourth part has been devoted to Inventories of Records, illustrating the history of the burgh, and under the charge of the Town Clerk, the Sheriff Clerk, and the Registrar General respectively. Though Aberdeen has been fortunate in having its archives subjected to examination by antiquaries so laborious as Kennedy, so accurate as John Stuart and Joseph Robertson; though many volumes have been devoted by the two Spalding Clubs, and by the Burgh Records Society, to the printing of its annals, municipal, ecclesiastical, educational; yet the amount of material that still remains for the future burgh historian to explore, is truly astonishing. The four published volumes of Selections from the Council Register give, probably, not one-thirtieth of the matter in the manuscript minutes of the period; while the eighty-five volumes of the Burgh Register of Sasines (1484—1800); the sixty-two volumes of the County Register (1599—1800); the eighty volumes of Sheriff Court Diet books (1503—1800), and Decree books (1597—1800); the forty-nine volumes of Deeds registered in the Burgh Court (1569—1710), and in the Sheriff Court (1606—1766); the Accounts, from the sixteenth century, of the Kirk and Bridge Works, and of the Shore Works; the Baillie Court books; the Propinquity books; the collection of letters—are as yet practically unworked.

The history of Aberdeen has been often attempted: its revision is understood to be now in progress in competent hands. The present volume is intended to serve but as a contribution of material; and hence it would be out of place in the preface to attempt to weave a continuous story from the disconnected threads of these charters and acts. Even a recapitulation of their contents is rendered unnecessary by the ample Table subjoined.

Some reference to one matter has been promised in a footnote (p. 3)—the dates of the three earliest charters. The insertion of a date, by year, was not practised in the time of William the Lion; the regnal year begins to appear under his successor; the annus domini not until the reign of the first James. In the absence of more conclusive internal evidence, limits between which the date of a charter must lie, may be deduced from the names of the witnesses. Thus the charter by William, printed on page 3, must have been written when Gilbert was Earl of Strathearn, i.e., not before 1171, and when Andrew was Bishop of Caithness, i.e., not after 1185: this is certainty. It is sealed at Perth, and hence Kennedy thinks it was granted by William in 1179, when advancing to Ross with an army to quell disturbances: this is conjecture.

William's second charter, in like manner, comes during the period 1187—1203, when Richard was Bishop of Moray. It is sealed at Aberdeen, and hence Kennedy suggests the year 1196, when the King made a second progress northward to suppress an insurrection in Caithness. The charter of Alexander II. must of course date after the accession of that monarch in 1214, and not later than 1222, when the widow of Walter Lindesay married a second time.

The editor has a pleasant duty to perform in acknowledging the co-operation of Mr. A. M. Munro, of the City Chamberlain's Office. All the documents from the burgh archives were transcribed for the press by Mr. Munro, with an accuracy that could not be surpassed: all the proof sheets have been read by him. But the mere work of transcription or of proof reading is but a part of his contribution towards the preparation of the volume. His familiarity with the contents of the Burgh Charter Room made comparatively easy the task of selection; and his intimate knowledge of the municipal history of Aberdeen—a knowledge always at the service of every enquirer—proved of the utmost use in elucidating many obscure points in the earlier deeds. The copious index is entirely due to Mr. Munro.

The editor wishes also to express his sense of the obligation under which he lies, for several suggestions, to Dr. Thomas Dickson, of H.M. General Register House, Edinburgh.

King William the Lion grants a free Hanse to his burgesses of Aberdeen and others.†

WILLIAM, by the grace of God King of Scots, to all good men ‡ of his whole land, greeting. Know all men, present and to come, that I have granted, and by this my charter have confirmed, to my burgesses of Aberdeen, and to all burgesses of Moray, and to all my burgesses dwelling to the north of the Munth, their free Hanse, to be held where they will and when they will; as freely and peaceably,

* In previous reproductions of the earliest Aberdeen charter (Kennedy's Annals of Aberdeen, 1818, Vol. I., Reissue, p. 8; Appendix to Report on Municipal Corporations (Scotland), 1835, p. 6; Gordon's Description of Bothe Towns of Aberdeens, 1842, p. 29; The Acts of the Parliament of Scotland, 1875, Vol. I., Reissue, p. 87) this word has invariably been printed "Munth". It will be seen from the frontispiece that the correct rendering is undoubtedly as above. The interchange of lingual and guttural terminations is not uncommon. Compare the forms, Meneteth, Meneteh, Meneteht.

† See Preface with reference to dates of this and next two charters.

‡ "These styles were borrowed almost verbatim from Anglo-Saxon England. . . . The class of the 'good men,' probi homines, does not precisely mean men of morality. Like libertenentes, the title of probi homines has been a great subject of controversy in England, without much fruit from the strife. . . . I think English lawyers have now agreed that probi homines may be correctly rendered either vassals or subjects. . . . With us probus homo has a similar meaning. I have myself a series of charters and letters in which the owners of certain lands in Moray are styled 'Goodman of Cotta,' 'Goodman of Leuchars'; and that designation lasted for a century or two."—Cosmo Innes' Lectures on Scotch Legal Antiquities, p. 35.

King William the Lion frees his burgesses of Aberdeen from the payment of toll on their own goods in any part of his Kingdom. 28th August.

WILLIAM, by the grace of God King of Scots, to the bishops, abbots, earls, barons, justiciars, sheriffs, provosts,* officers, and all good men of his whole land, churchmen and laymen, greeting. Know all men, present and to come, that I have declared all my burgesses of Aberdeen for ever quit of toll on their own goods throughout my whole kingdom, in return for the good service which the

* "The word prepositus cannot be considered equivalent to the modern provost, inasmuch as it is generally used in the plural, with reference to each burgh of any size. . . . The officers who accounted for the fermes are, during the first half of the fourteenth century, generally called prepositi, occasionally ballivi, the latter name having probably survived from the period when the collectors of the fermes were Crown officers. . . . Mayor and Alderman were terms in use as designations of the chief magistrate of the more important burghs." The Exchequer Rolls of Scotland, Vol. I., 1878, pp. lxxxvi., lxxxvii. In the Scotch MSS. of the "Leges Burgorum" the term prepositus is rendered indifferently "burrow greyff," "aldyrman," and "bailye". Ancient Laws and Customs of the Burghs of Scotland, Vol. I., 1868, pp. 5, 25.

I also strictly forbid any stranger merchant to buy or to sell anything within the sherifffdom of Aberdeen outwith my burgh of Aberdeen, in despite of my protection ; but stranger merchants are to bring their merchandise to my burgh of Aberdeen and there sell the same and receive their money ; if, however, any stranger merchant shall, in despite of my protection, be found within the sherifffdom of Aberdeen buying or selling anything, he is to be apprehended and kept in custody until I shall have declared my pleasure regarding him. I also strictly forbid any stranger merchant to cut his cloth for sale in the market of Aberdeen, save from the day of the Ascension of Our Lord to the feast of St. Peter's Chains ; between which terms it is my will that they cut their cloth for sale in the market of Aberdeen, and there buy and sell their cloth and other merchandise in common with my burgesses, in like manner as my proper burgesses : saving my rights. I also ordain that all who dwell in the burgh of Aberdeen and wish to take part with my burgesses in the market, take part with them in paying my dues, whose men soever they be. I also forbid the without prejudice from the oppression or the subversion of their privileges which they have hitherto undergone during our war in our absence. And although our said burgesses and community have in truth suffered losses and injuries at our instance or by our permission contrary to their privileges and rights granted to them by the Kings of Scotland our predecessors; it is, however, our will that their privileges, usages and rights shall henceforth endure for them and their successors undiminished and unimpaired. Wherefore we strictly forbid anyone to make bold in despite of this our grant to trouble or annoy or inconvenience them, on pain of our full forfeiture. In witness whereof we have ordered our seal to be appended to our present charter. Witnesses: Robert, Steward of Scotland, our nephew; Duncan, Earl of Fife; Patrick of Dunbar, Earl of March; Robert of Keith, our Marischal of Scotland; Malcolm Fleming; and Thomas of Charteris, our Chancellor—Knights. King James II. empowers the provost, baillies, and burgesses of Aberdeen to escheat wool, skins, and hides exported outwith the sherifdom of Aberdeen without payment of the great custom. 9th October, 1458.

JAMES, by the grace of God King of Scots, to all and sundry our lieges and subjects to whose knowledge the present letters shall come, greeting. Whereas we have understood that the burgesses and merchants of our burgh of Aberdeen have heretofore sustained very great losses and inconveniences on account of the exportation of wool, skins and hides outwith our sherifdom of Aberdeen, in despite of the privileges and liberty of the said burgesses, to the detriment of our great custom of the said burgh: We therefore, giving heed to and weighing well the violation of the said liberty and the consequent losses to ourselves and our said burgesses, have entrusted, and by the tenor of these presents do entrust, to the provost, baillies and burgesses of our said burgh for the time being, and to their deputies, free privilege and full power to escheat and to appropriate and take for our own use such goods, wools, skins, hides, as have been thus taken, or shall in time to come chance to be taken, outwith the said sherifdom and freedom of the said burgh, without payment of our custom. From which escheated goods we have granted, and by the tenor of these presents do grant, to the said burgesses of our burgh of Aberdeen, half the escheat thereof, in return for their

But the other half of the said escheat the provost and baillies of the burgh aforesaid shall be bound to hand over to us, and yearly to render account of the same goods to our treasury. Wherefore we strictly enjoin all and sundry our lieges and subjects whom it does or may concern, promptly to answer, obey and attend to the said provost, baillies and burgesses of the said burgh and their officers and servants in all and sundry matters affecting the escheating of the said goods and the handing over thereof to our uses, as aforesaid; and not to make bold in any degree to contravene these presents in time to come, under every penalty competent in the circumstances. These presents to remain in force during our pleasure. Queen Mary empowers the provost, baillies, &c., of Aberdeen to feu the freedom lands of the burgh and the fishings in Dee and Don. 8th February, 155<sup>1</sup><sub>2</sub>.

MARY, by the grace of God Queen of Scots, to all her good men to whom the present letters shall come, greeting. Whereas it is well known to us and to our dearest cousin and tutor, James, Duke of Chatelherault, Earl of Arran, Lord Hamilton, protector and governor of our kingdom, and to the Lords of our Privy Council, that the provost, baillies and community and inhabitants of our burgh of Aberdeen were many centuries past infest in the fishings of the waters of Dee and Don and in the several estates lying within the freedom of our said burgh, by umquhile invincible Robert Bruce, King of Scots, and others his successors in these our times, our most noble predecessors of cherished memory, on whose souls may God have mercy; holding the same of us and our predecessors by the annual payment of a rental of two hundred and thirteen pounds six shillings and eight pence to us and to our pensionaries, to whom a certain portion of the said

Wherefore to avoid and put an end to such disturbances and to remove all occasion and exciting cause therefor, and lest in future there be anything which can in any way allure the nobles to this our burgh, and that the common good thereof, and its annual rental be increased for the more efficient protection of its citizens; with special consent and assent of our aforesaid governor and Lords of our Privy Council, we have given, granted and committed, and for us and our successors by the tenor of these presents do give, grant and commit, to the provost, baillies and councillors and to the community of our said burgh of Aberdeen, present and to come, and to a majority of their fellow citizens, full power, free privilege and special license to lease, rent, let, and, now and at all future times as often as Queen Mary confirms a feu charter of the fishings of Dee and Don granted (12th September, 1553) by the provost, baillies, &c., of Aberdeen. 15th September, 1553.

MARY, by the grace of God Queen of Scots, TO ALL good men of her WHOLE land, churchmen and laymen, greeting. KNOW YE that with the advice, consent and authority of our most dear cousin and tutor, JAMES, Duke of Chatelherault, Earl of Arran, Lord Hamilton, protector and governor of our kingdom, we have fully considered a certain charter of feufarm and gift — by our command seen, read, inspected and carefully examined, being whole, entire, not erased, not cancelled, nor suspected in any part — made by our beloved provost, baillies, councillors and community of our burgh of Aberdeen, by unanimous consent and assent, as well as by our express privilege and licence granted to the foresaid provost, baillies, councillors and community, with advice and consent of our said governor and the Lords of our Privy Council,—in favour of the underwritten fellow-citizens of our said burgh,

King James VI. confirms sundry charters granted by his predecessors, and of new erects the burgh of Aberdeen into a free royal burgh, with all privileges pertaining thereto. 14th August, 1601.

JAMES, by the grace of God King of Scots, to all good men of his whole kingdom, churchmen and laymen, greeting. Know ye that calling to mind that great and earnest care which in times past our most noble ancestors of cherished memory bestowed on the erection within our kingdom of burghs, by the number of which a great part of the refinement or ornament, advantage, gain and glory of the same is formed and increased from day to day; in the number of which, in return for the good, trusty and gratuitous service rendered to our said most noble ancestors by the burgesses and inhabitants of our burgh of Aberdeen, and because of the singular favour and regard had and declared by them for the said burgh and the burgesses thereof, these our ancestors did of old time erect the said burgh into a free royal burgh, and did give, grant and dispone to the same burgh, the burgesses and inhabitants thereof, all and whole the lands called our Forest of Stocket, with the wood of the same, and their parts, pendicles and pertinents, with mills, waters, fishings, petty customs, tolls, courts, weights, measures, free

King James VI. confirms sundry charters granted to the burgh by himself and by his predecessors. 17th July, 1617.

JAMES, by the grace of God King of Great Britain, France, and Ireland, Defender of the Faith, TO ALL good men of his whole land, churchmen and laymen, greeting. KNOW YE that, in our Parliament held at our burgh of Edinburgh on the twenty-eighth day of the month of June last,* in the current year of our Lord one thousand six hundred and seventeen, We and the estates of our Parliament, considering that our most noble predecessors of worthy memory erected and founded our burgh of Aberdeen, one of the most ancient and most renowned burghs of our kingdom of Scotland, and endowed it with full privileges, liberties and immunities, TO BE HELD of our predecessors for annual

King Charles I. confirms the privileges granted to the burgh by his predecessors. 9th September, 1638.

CHARLES, by the grace of God King of Great Britain, France and Ireland, Defender of the Faith, TO ALL good men of his whole land, churchmen and laymen, greeting. KNOW YE THAT WE—(having these many years bypast attained our full age, and having made, thereto and beyond, our revocation both special and general in parliament), calling to mind that our most illustrious ancestors, of immortal memory, erected the burgh of Aberdeen (which is one of the most ancient and most illustrious burghs in this our kingdom of Scotland) into a free and royal burgh, and gave and granted to the provost, baillies, councillors, burgesses and community thereof, and their successors, the same burgh, with several lands, heritages, tenements, houses, buildings, mills, fishings, privileges, liberties, and immunities, belonging and pertaining thereto, by valid infeftments, rights and securities made and granted thereupon to them and their successors, as is set forth at greater length in the same, according to which the said provost, baillies, councillors, burgesses and community of our said burgh, and their predecessors, hold and have held in all time past the said burgh, lands, mills, fishings, and others per-* "Furca et fossa—the right of pit and gallows, the true mark of a true baron in the ancient time, who had curia vite et membrorum, jurisdiction in life and limb. It was not the peculiar taste of our barbarous ancestors: all feudal lords through feudal Europe were equally fond and proud of the right of executing those whom they had first convicted and sentenced to death. . . . The Gallowhill is still an object of interest, and, I fear, of some pride, near our old baronial mansions; and I know some where the surrounding ground is full of the remains of the poor wretches who died by the baron's law. Perhaps the fossa—the pit—was for the female thief; for women sentenced to death were, for the most part, drowned."

"Sac is the abbreviation of sach, and means placitum—a plea or suit at law, and the jurisdiction or right of judging in litigious suits. Soc again strictly denotes the district included within such a jurisdiction."

"Thol has sometimes been supposed to mean exemption from toll or custom. . . . But in the common case I confess I prefer the interpretation which makes Thol—the definite, technical privilege—the right of exacting the duty rather than the right of refusing to pay it."

"Them is explained by Kemble as warranty, a word which has a very great variety of meanings in connexion with jurisdictions and forms of process of old. . . . Some bond of mutual warranty, such as was known in England under the name of frank pledge . . . to such a system this old word Them may apply."

"Infangthef is a short way of expressing the right to judge and punish a thief caught 'with the fang' within the grantee's jurisdiction. Outfangthef, which is much less common, gave the same power over a thief caught beyond the jurisdiction of the lord, he being followed and caught with the fang."

*King Charles I. grants to the provost, baillies, etc., their parish church of St.
Nicholas. 11th November, 1641.*

CHARLES, etc. Whereas, considering that the church of St. Nicholas within our burgh of Aberdeen is the chief and principal parish church of our said burgh, and was formerly the proper church of the bishopric of Aberdeen, and that now the name and title of the bishopric have been dissolved and suppressed by the laws and the acts of our parliament of this our kingdom, it has seemed right to us, from our pious and royal regard for the increase and promotion of religion within our said kingdom, to give, found, mortify and dispone the said church of St. Nicholas, with all the teinds thereof, parsonage and vicarage, to the provost, baillies, councillors and community of our said burgh now in office, and to their successors in all time to come: Therefore, with advice and consent of our well-beloved cousins and councillors, John Earl of Loudon, Lord Terrinjean and Mauchlin, etc., our chancellor, Archibald Marquis of Argyll, and the rest in ordinary form, etc., we have given,

The Privy Council appoint a voluntary contribution to be collected throughout Scotland towards repairing the Harbour of Aberdeen. 7th July, 1682.

Forasmuch, as there being a Petition given in to the Lords of His Majesties Privy Council, by the Magistrates, and Town-council of Aberdeen, Representing, that the town of Aberdeen having a considerable Sea trade within themselves, and which is of a considerable advantage to the Countrey, and without a good Harbour, cannot be well mannaged; and at the entry thereto, near the mouth of the River of Dee, there being by stress of Weather, several Banks casten up, and which is likewise, partly occasioned by the diversion of the current of the River, which, when running in the middle Channel, did cleanse the entry of the Harbour from Sand and Banks; and after serious and deliberate advice, its found, that the River cannot well be preserved, in running its due course, without having a Bulwark upon the North shore, as there is one already on the south side thereof; and whereby the Stream will run in the middle, the building whereof at an equal computation, will cost at least one thousand pound sterling, besides the repairing of the Key alongst the Shore, which is of a considerable length; and which expenses, the Town in regard of the publick burdens, and great debt they ly under, of themselves, are not able to defray it, without that by the Councils Act, they have some assistance of their neighbours, by way of general Collection, as is usual to be granted in the like cases; and as the town of Aberdeen hath never hitherto been burdensom to their neighbours, in addresses of this nature, so they were never wanting to contribute to the utmost of their power, in the assisting the building of all publick Works, when occasion required ; and as the Harbour of Aberdeen is of necessary use, to preserve the Trade of that place, so the keeping up, and maintaining of the same, is of no less concern to the hail Liedges, and which inevitably will ruine without present supply ; And therefore humbly Supplicating, that a voluntar Contribution might be granted, in manner under-written, towards the Building and Repairing of the said Harbour. The Lords of His Majesties Privy Council, having heard and considered the foresaid Petition, Do hereby grant Order and Warrant, for a voluntar Contribution to be Collected through the hail Kingdom, towards the Building and Repairing of the said Harbour of Aberdeen ; and Recommend to the Arch-bishops and Bishops, to cause the Ministers in their respective Diocesses, to make intimation of the said Contribution, in their several Paroch Kirks, upon the Lords Day And ordain Alexander Anderson, present Town Thesaurer of Aberdeen and his successors in the said Office, for the time being, to uplift and Collect the foresaid voluntar Contribution, in regard sufficient Caution is found for them, that what Money shall be Collected, shall be made forthcoming, and imployed to the use foresaid, and to be countable therefore, when required.

The provost and burgesses of Banff entreat the guardians of the kingdom to cause King Alexander's Charter to the Burgh of Aberdeen to be duly observed. 1289.

To the wise and prudent men, Guardians of the kingdom of Scotland, appointed from the General Council, and to the remanent resident Magnates of the same Council, the provosts and remanent burgesses of the community of Banff, greeting and reverence due to a position of honour. We, sorely complaining, do point out to you that whereas our Lord, Alexander, umquhile King of Scotland, of renowned memory, did by his charter* grant and for ever confirm certain fairs to be held and had in the burgh of Aberdeen for the benefit of us and of other burghs lying to the north of the mountains; which fairs are obstructed and every year disturbed by the burgesses of Montrose, to the no small prejudice and injury of the foresaid burgh of Aberdeen, and indeed of the

King Edward I. appoints William le Betour Captain of the Navy to assist in raising the Siege of the Castle of Aberdeen. 10th July [1308].

The King to his beloved William le Betour, greeting. Whereas we are much in need, for our invasion of Scotland, both of sailors and of others, specially trusting in your diligence and faithfulness, we have appointed you captain of our navy at Hartlepool, at Newcastle on Tyne, at Berwick on Tweed, and at other places between Hartlepool and Aberdeen, to assist in raising the siege of our castle of Aberdeen, and to take strong measures in all matters affecting in these parts our expedition against our hostile and rebellious Scots; as our beloved and trusty Gilbert Petche and . . . our chamberlain of Scotland will more fully direct you on our behalf. And, therefore, we command you to attend to this in every respect, to the postponement of all other concerns. Moreover, we command all and sundry shipmasters and sailors to obey and assist you on our behalf by accompanying you with their ships and men, properly armed, to carry out the premises effectively and valiantly, and as often as you lead the said sailors for our defence. In witness, &c. At Windsor, the tenth day of July.

and others of the said kingdom of Scotland, whose consent thereto is necessary or is otherwise considered desirable, by cōmmon assent of all the prelates, magnates and others, merchants and community of the said kingdom of Scotland, do purely, simply, of certain knowledge and free will consent to the foresaid treaties and agreements thus made and had, and unanimously approve thereof in all respects. We do also promise and grant, for ourselves and for them, and each one of us promises and grants by a solemn compact entered upon and sworn to by us as under, as well upon our own souls as upon those of the other absent merchants, that without deceit, fraud or guile we, all and each, will observe, hold and fulfil all the articles and every head contained in the said agreement, and will do what we can to have them faithfully observed by others. And for the greater security and confirmation of all and sundry above and underwritten, and especially for the payment in full of all the sum of money, viz., one hundred thousand merks sterling, due to the said Lord the King of England for the liberation of our foresaid Lord David, King of Scotland, at certain places and terms fixed in the said agreement for the payment; we bind and oblige and constitute debtors principal, ourselves and the other merchants aforesaid, and each one of us and them debtor principal in solidum for the whole sum and for the debtors aforesaid. The King, by his letters patent, to be in force for one year, on petition of Thomas Weston, citizen and fishmonger of the royal city of London, has taken in safe and sure royal conduct, and under his special protection, guard and defence, Adam Dolas and William Shortyng, merchants of the town of Aberdeen in Scotland, travelling with ten men in their company to the foresaid royal city of London by sea in a certain ship, laden with divers merchandise, remaining there

King James IV., inter alia, creates the city of Old Aberdeen a free burgh of Barony. 26th December, 1489.

James, by the grace of God King of Scots, to all, etc., greeting. Know ye that, for the singular devotion that we bear towards the most glorious Virgin Mary, patron of the Cathedral Church of Aberdeen, in praise and honour of the same; and for the special favour, zeal and affection that we have towards the reverend father in God, William of Elphinston, now bishop and prelate of the said Cathedral Church, our much beloved councillor; and for all his faithful and gratuitous service, and great labours and heavy expenses (and in part repayment thereof) incurred at divers times in missions and embassies

* Similar letters of safe conduct are granted to the following burgesses of Aberdeen :

1433, Oct. 6. John Fyf, Matthew Fycheat, and Andrew Coleyn.

And we have granted, and by the tenor of our present charter do grant, that transgressors and violators of the said immunities be taken on our indictments by our justice clerks, and the crime so committed by them be henceforth held as a ground of indictment; and the said delinquents be punished therefor even to death. And also we have given and granted, and by this our present charter do give and grant, to the foresaid reverend father and his successors, and to the chapter and canons of the said Cathedral Church of Aberdeen, for the time being and to come, full privilege, liberty and power to buy all sorts of victuals, wines and other merchandise brought within the port of Aberdeen, or outwith the same, by our lieges whatsoever, or by strangers from other kingdoms coming thither for their own profit and for the honourable support of themselves and their households; and to sell again the said victuals, wines or merchandise; or to traffic therewith in any way, as in times past has been inviolably observed. And moreover, whereas by our ancient records and otherwise it is fully and clearly evident to us and to our Council that our umquhile most serene predecessor David, King of Scots, of glorious memory, did inſett the Chanonry of Aberdeen with its pertinents, commonly called Old Aberdeen, of all the lands, feuduties, and annual rents formerly belonging to the chaplains or vicars of the choir of the cathedral church of Aberdeen, eternal greeting in the Lord. Know ye that I, moved by zeal for the honour of Almighty God, and for the maintenance of poley* in this part of the kingdom, and because history testifies that the stone bridge over the water of Don, near the burgh of Aberdeen, was built by command, and at the expense of, the deceased most invincible prince, Robert Bruce, king of the kingdom of Scotland, of most excellent memory, which bridge, partly by the injury of time, partly because there exists no annual provision for its maintenance, seems to be falling into decay; and because it greatly concerns the whole north part of the foresaid kingdom, especially the citizens of the said burgh, that that ancient monument should not come to ruin; and for other reasonable causes moving my mind hereto: Therefore, I have given, granted, alienated, and by this my present charter confirmed, and by the tenor of these presents do give, grant, alienate, and by this my present charter confirm, to the provost, baillies, councillors, and community, of the said burgh of Aberdeen, and to their successors, All and whole my feuduties and annhual rents underwritten, annually leivable and receivable at which highway from the s<sup>d</sup> Robert Duguids house thereto ought ¶ should be four ells in breadth conform to the march stons and fand the s<sup>d</sup> highway only a litle encroacht upon The other halfe keeping in the highway by the old wind milne for visiteing the back gaitis of the head of the Gallowgate which rode from the s<sup>d</sup> wind milne to the s<sup>d</sup> Alex<sup>r</sup> Toasch barne ought to be four ells in breadth at the narrowest ordained the march stone at the s<sup>d</sup> old wind milne to be minded and fand that William Lumsden had incroachit upon the s<sup>d</sup> road about three footis with the gavell of his barne made interruption therat and ordained him to be conveyened And from the s<sup>d</sup> Alexander Toasch barne keeping the highway south-east or thereby till they came to the house formerly belonging to W<sup>m</sup> Lindsay ¶ now to which is four ells in breadth at the narrowest ¶ fand the same ordinarily well observed and ordained and ordained ane timber ravelling to be built befor Captan Melvills stank And from thence divideing equally viz<sup>t</sup> the on halfe keeping the highway lineally to the Thieves Bridges from the well called the Nook Well without the Justice Port which rode from the s<sup>d</sup> well to the Theivs Bridges ought and should be four ells in breadth at the narrowest and fand the same rode greatly incroachit upon by Alexander Forbes tennent to the Lady Barns and be Alexander Smith hyrer tennent to Marjorie Burnet for encroacheing on the neu calsie built there made interruptione on both And from thence keeping the stank at the Thieves Bridges straight eistward to Footysmyre ¶ fand the same rightly observed the other half straight downe the Bowll Rode (which ought to be also four ells in breadth) and fand the march stons on both sydes almost extinct ordained the same to be renewed And from thence meeting all in the Links went be the heads of the crofts betwixt the first holl of the Links and Garvacks Wynd and fand the same rightly observed except ane march stone which wes lifted at Footischoll ordained to be renewed and fand ane great holl casten in the Links about the eist end of Garvocks Wynd by the cariers of sand ordains the same to be filled up and the makers thereof conveyened ¶ fyned And from thence divideing equally the on halfe from the eist end of the s<sup>d</sup> Garvocks Wyne keipeing the heads of the crofts nixt the sea towards the blockhouse fand the same ordinarily well observed from incroachments on the Links and the other halfe keepeing Garvacks Wynd westward (which ought to be also four ells in breadth) fand the same ordinarily well observed on both syds And from thence south-east or thereby to the butts of land at the back of the town of Futtie and fand the same ordinarily well observed and which in old tyme wes lineally potted ⁊ marked for march stons from the well of Footy to the eistmost cunje of the blockhouse lineally and from the s<sup>d</sup> well of Footy passand straight north lineally to ane march stone at the east end of ane corne rigg (formerly called Lyons Rigg) at whilk rigg ther ought to be twentie fouts in breadth of ane rode all the way to Garvacks Wynd and fand the same rod a litle below the gate of Footy Kirk greatly encroached upon ordained to be marked ⁊ the guilty conveyend And from thence passand allongst the shoar ⁊ by the Trinities and in by the back of George Browne and Baillie Gellie ther yards keeping the highway till they came to the Bowbridge fand the same rightly observed And fra the s<sup>d</sup> Bowbridge divideing equally the on halfe towards the Crabston who fand that tennents to Janat Cruickshank relict of John Licklie maltman hade incroacht greatly on the s<sup>d</sup> highway by build of three corss housses theron which wer ordained to be demollished and the s<sup>d</sup> Janet conveyend and that the narrowest part of the s<sup>d</sup> way from the s<sup>d</sup> Bowbridge to the Crabstone ought to be twenty on fouts in breadth The other halfe keepeing westward straight up the Denburne fand an great incroachment on the comontie of the s<sup>d</sup> burne not only on the eist syde thereof by the yard pertaineing to the aires of James Allan Litster and croft now labored by David Ord ordained both to be helped and made interuptione and ordaines the s<sup>d</sup> comon rode to be repaired which goes allongst the east syde of the s<sup>d</sup> burne but also that hade labored ane rigg of land lyand benorth the duckat at the foot of the brae and west syde of the s<sup>d</sup> burne which ought to be cōity made interuptione thereat and ordaines the tennent to be conveyend and the corns thereof to be shorn when rype And also fand that the croft now laboured be Arthur Robertstone late in Caberstone wes greatly enlarged upon the commonty of the eist syde of the s<sup>d</sup> burne ordained the corns therof to be cutted when rype till they come lineally with the march stons of the s<sup>d</sup> croft and the s<sup>d</sup> Arthur to be cited ⁊ fyned and from thence goeing up the sa burne took interuptione at the Skinners Scons as also at ane litle house built on the west syde of the s<sup>d</sup> burne on the south syde of the high rode to Robslaw because it incroached upon the s<sup>d</sup> rode And from thence keeping the high rode to Robslaw above Sant Johns Well fand the north ends of the crofts on the south syde therof rightly observed And from thence begining at the westmost end of the croft called Hardweird fand that the present tennent hade encroached greatly on the comonty of the Denburne made interuptione both at house & croft and ordained Alexander Sangster measone to build ane dyke ther on the north syde of the s<sup>d</sup> burne upon his own expenss conform to his obligement seeing the old stons of the old dyke wer taken away by him And from thence keepeing close by the s<sup>d</sup> burne till they came to the Womanhill wher divideing the on halfe went about the calsie at the Broad Foord keeping the highway to the carne till they came to the Gallowgat head & fand all rods and marches rightly observed the other halfe keeping the road whych lyes betwixt the Colledge Croft now possest be Charles Sangster weaver and the lands of the Loch belonging to the towne fand the same ordinarily well observed except a little incroachment in the nor<sup>t</sup> syde of the s<sup>d</sup> croft upon the s<sup>d</sup> rode wherat interuptione wes made till they also came to the Gallowgat Port keepeing the way of the cloussis & backgates & fand all rightly observed * See Extracts from the Council Register of the Burgh of Aberdeen (Spalding Club), vol. i., 1398-1570; vol. ii., 1570-1625: Ibid. (Burgh Records Society), vol. i., 1625-1642; vol. ii., 1643-1747. The matter contained in the 1537 printed pages of these four volumes is probably only about one thirtieth of the contents of the 50,081 pages of the Council Register for the period 1398-1747. According to a Report by Mr. P. J. Anderson, submitted to the Council, 3rd May, 1886, the number of references requisite for a thoroughly satisfactory index (of subjects, names of persons, and names of places) to the 68,140 pages of the MS. Register 1398-1884, would be not less than one million and a-half.

New Series.

Vols. I.-CXXVI. 17th November, 1809, to date.

DEEDS, &c., HANDED IN FOR PRESERVATION.

Bundles of deeds for every year from and including 1607 to November, 1809, when the present system of registration came into force; also bundles for each year from 1809 to date.

There are also bundles of deeds for every year from and including 1722 to November, 1809, which were handed over to the Sheriff Clerk by the Commissary Clerk in the latter year.*

* Previous to 12th November, 1809, when the Act of 44 Geo. III., Cap. 42, came into force, the Commissary Courts were Courts of Record, but unfortunately all the deeds and books prior to the date of the fire on 30th October, 1721, perished in the fire.

The books, from the date of the fire to the date of the Act above referred to, are now in the Register House, Edinburgh, while the deeds themselves are in the custody of the Sheriff Clerk, having been handed over to him by the Commissary Clerk, conform to an inventory.

This inventory consists of three parts, viz.:—

- (1) List of Extracts registered after the fire.
- (2) List of Papers registered after the fire.
- (3) List of Registered Protests on Bills.

The volume containing these lists and another volume entitled "Copy Minute Book of Confirmed Testaments from 30th October, 1721," might be useful to investigations for the periods they cover.

There seem to be complete books of Extract Inventories since 1806, and of Testamentary Writings since 1812, and relative Diet Books.

JUDICIAL BONDS.

A bundle for every year from 1734 to date.

REGISTERED PROTESTS.

Prior to the year 1722, protests were put up with and recorded among the deeds. Since that year down to the present time they have been put up in separate bundles.

PROCESSES AND EXTRACTED DECREES.

Numerous bundles of these prior to 1811, and from that period to date, bundles for each year.

COMPOUNDED PROCESSES.

Bundles of these for several years during period 1772 to 1806.

HALF DUES, PAID PROCESSES.

Bundles of these for several years during period 1808 to 1835.

UNEXTRACTED DECREES.

A bundle of these for each year from 1806 to 1826, and also for the year 1829.*

SMALL DEBT COMPLAINTS, &c.

Bundles of these for the whole period from and after 1845 to date.

MINUTE BOOKS OF COURT FROM 1825.

SERVICES—TUTORIAL AND CURATORIAL INVENTORIES.

Bundles of these proceedings for the period 1649 to 1851.

* For a good many years no distinction has been made between extracted and unextracted decrees, the processes disposed of in each year being put up together.

PROTESTS.

Continuous from 1630 to date, with the exception of the period from 164 to 1649.

* The Records of this Commissariat were transmitted to H.M. General Register House, Edinburgh, on 17th March, 1860. They are accompanied by an Inventory prepared by the Commissary Clerk, which indicates merely the bundles and volumes of which the transmission consisted, with the dates to which these relate. The earlier Records of the Commissariat were destroyed by fire on the 30th October, 1721, and, accordingly, the following lists will be found to contain little that is earlier in date than that year.
